By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — An influential group of Asian and African countries prepared today to counter a Western-backed Middle East peace plan with a new resolution calling for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon and British troops from Jordan.

Western diplomats insisted they had enough votes to win approval for their own proposal in the emergency U.N. General Assembly. But there were signs they were worried by the new developments.

Informed sources said Secretary of State Dulles had cancelled plans to return to Washington this afternoon.

He conferred with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd this morning and scheduled a meeting with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville this afternoon.

The United States was understood to be trying hard to win support of five or six Latin American delegates who were holding out against the 7-nation Western resolution, authorized by Norway.

The Western plan makes no specific mention of the withdrawal of U.S. and British forces from Lebanon and Jordan.

Lebanon's Foreign Minister Charles Malik opened this morning's debate in the Assembly. He made no mention of the Western resolution. He said there is a deep-seated fear in Lebanon that the very existence of the country is at stake.

"We ask that this fear be allayed," he said.

The resolution introduced by Norwegian Deputy Foreign Minister Hans Engen, with six other

Show Funds to Be Used by Youth Center

Funds derived from the Youth Center's second annual style show to be held in front of Ladies Specialty Shop on Thursday, Aug. 21 at 8 p.m., will be used to provide entertainment for the local youth that otherwise would be impossible.

Proceeds from last year's show were used to provide an orchestra for young people at least twice monthly throughout the school year. This added variety of entertainment increased attendance tremendously, helping the Youth Center to have a much better recreation program.

It is hoped that by presenting the public with a fashionable style show, the Youth Center can, in turn, better its own program and attract more interest from the youth of our city.

The Youth Council is striving to show appreciation for its newly remodeled building by making the best practical use of it.

Tickets for the show are now on sale. Adult tickets are 50c and children's tickets 25c.

Insurance Group Raps Farmers Union

LITTLE ROCK, AP — The Farmers Union Mutual Insurance Co. was accused yesterday of trying to "swallow" its parent organization, the Arkansas Farmers Union. The accusation was denied by the insurance company.

Robert W. Downs of Harrisburg, Union president, said the insurance firm was spending policyholders' money "and the time of its employees in an effort to take control of the Arkansas Farmers Union."

Downs made the charges in a letter to Harvey G. Combs, state insurance commissioner. He asked the commissioner's aid in preventing the insurance company from taking over Farmers Union during its 2-day state convention now being held here.

Downs said that Combs "could order the insurance company not to use company funds for a propaganda campaign."

Downs charged in his letter that the company had planned to bring people from various counties to the convention to "vote according to their (the company's) dictates."

He asked Combs to investigate the situation.

There are about 35,000 members in the Farmers Union, which was formed in 1905.

J. Bryson, chairman of the board of the insurance company, called Downs' statements "very absurd." He declined to comment further.

Congressional Leaders Press to End Session

WASHINGTON, AP — Leaders kept the pressure on today in an effort to wind up the 85th Congress by the weekend.

In a day of slam-bang action Monday, the House killed labor and housing legislation. The Senate completed congressional action on a new farm bill, and gave firm the controversial nomination of Wilson W. White to be assistant attorney general in charge of civil rights.

Today the Senate turned to proposals to modify the effects of recent Supreme Court decisions, and the House to a minerals subsidy bill.

Neither of those issues generated the heat of the major measures disposed of Monday and Tuesday night, but both were controversial enough for possible verbal fireworks.

Both houses were knocking off smaller measures by dozens Monday under rules cutting off amendments and nearly all debate.

The loudest, and sharpest talk of Monday's long session came in the Senate over the nomination of White, a Philadelphia lawyer, to head the new Civil Rights Division in the Department of Justice.

The nomination, pending since January, finally went through 56-20. Southern senators protested to the last that it was a pay-off to White for his legal advice that President Eisenhower had power to use troops to back up court orders for school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

White, in another Justified Department post, did much of the legal work in that situation. In hearings on the nomination he insisted he only gave advice on what might be legally done as a last resort.

The discussion was heated up by the St. Louis Court of Appeals ruling Monday which threw out a district judge's order allowing a 2½-year delay in Little Rock integration.

The farm measure was sent to the White House on a voice vote by the Senate late in the night. It goes part way—but not as far.

Gravette Men Collar Two Bank Robbers

GRAVETTE, Arkansas, AP — Two Gravette men collared a robber here yesterday as the man fled the Bank of Gravette with more than $22,000, police said.

The men, Dick Meade and Roy Burrows, held the bandit almost an hour until police arrived. Sheriff Joe Means identified the man as Carl Baty, 39, of Hot Springs and a native of Gravette.

Bank employees told police the man entered just before closing time.

Mrs. Clifton McAllister, an employee, said he declared, "This is a hold-up. Keep your hands where I can see them."

He brandished what appeared to be a pistol partly concealed by a handkerchief. The "weapon" later was found to be merely a long cigarette holder with a wire handle.

The man handed a paper bag to cashier Stokes Ballard and told him to fill it with money. Mrs. McAllister said Ballard complied by stuffing $22,500 into the bag.

During the robbery the phone rang and the man told clerk Johnny Meade, son of Dick Meade, to answer.

The caller was Mrs. Aleta Young, secretary at an electric firm near the bank. She asked asked permission to make a 1½ deposit.

Suspicious because of young Meade's manner in refusing, she went down to the bank and peered in a window just as the man herded the employees into the vault.

Mrs. Young called the elder Meade and Burrows. The men grabbed the robber as he emerged from the bank and threw the bag of money into a car parked at the curb.

Meade then went into the bank and opened the vault after Ballard had called out the combination to him through the door. Locked in the vault besides Ballard, Mrs. McAllister and young Meade, were Miss Elys Ballard, Mrs. Ellen McAllister and Mrs. Bob Bailey.

Sheriff Means said he and Deputy Bill Kellner took Baty into

$150,000 for Millwood in Compromise Bill

WASHINGTON, AP — A compromise water projects appropriations bill which provides more than 28 million dollars for Arkansas was approved by a Senate 51-40 vote today.

The bill approves a total of $1,118,300,000 for construction in the year which started last July 1. Arkansas would get $28,741,000 of that.

The committee compromised between the Senate figure of $1,159,915,835 and the House total of $1,077,827,000. President Eisenhower had budgeted $1,077,356,000.

The Arkansas appropriation includes $900,000 for planning work on the Arkansas River and its tributaries in Arkansas and Oklahoma, and $150,000 for planning work at Millwood Reservoir.

The following amounts were appropriated for reconstruction:

Predicts Rushed Farm Measure Will Go Through

WASHINGTON, AP — A farm bill that got rush treatment was predicted today it will be signed by President Eisenhower.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he was reasonably certain Eisenhower would sign the bill, which the Senate passed by voice vote Monday night. The House passed it last week.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who supported most of the bill's provisions, indicated earlier that the President would sign the measure if it gained passage.

The measure would prevent a sharp cutback in planting of cotton and rice, allow corn farmers to rid themselves of all planting controls, and extend, for three more years a subsidy program for domestic wool growers.

Another provision — which the administration especially likes — would permit lower government price supports on cotton, rice corn and other livestock feed grains.

Benson said in a statement that it was his understanding Congress would act on two other pieces of farm legislation before it quits.

One would extend the farm surplus disposal law for two years with $2 billion dollars in additional authority for overseas sales and gifts of farm surpluses.

Benson said the second bill was one pending in the Senate calling for state participation in aid programs for farmers hit by natural disasters.

Slavs Asking for Additional Aid From U. S.

WASHINGTON, AP — Communist Yugoslavia is asking for additional American economic aid to finance a number of industrial projects that were to have been paid for out of loans from the Soviets.

The Soviets canceled some 245 million dollars in promised loans last May in a crackdown move against Yugoslav President Tito, who follows a course independent of Moscow control.

Officials said Monday night the Yugoslav government has turned to the United States with a petition for 250 million dollars to pay for construction of new power stations and fertilizer plants, railroad modernization and some highway equipment.

State Department officials were reported to be looking with favor on the loan request amid indications some money would be turned over shortly to the Yugoslavs.

The officials were said to be taking the view that Yugoslavia must be bolstered to help the country continue its course of independent communism.

During the year which ended June 30 the United States supplied Yugoslavia with 103 million dollars in economic aid. About 73 millions of this was in surplus wheat.

Tito abruptly ended American military help last fall and even spurned an offer to be supplied with spare parts for weapons he had already gotten from this country.

But with the stiffening of Tito's relations with Moscow, the Yugoslavs' resumption of parts in limited quantities last February, officials said.

Integration Spotlight Back to Little Rock as Court Rules Out Delay

Judge Lemley's Ruling Set Aside by Decision

ST. LOUIS, AP — Resumption of integration at Little Rock's Central High School was ordered Monday by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus promptly moved to fight it, possibly through a special legislative session.

The court, in a 6-1 decision, set aside a ruling of U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope, Ark., which would have provided a 2½-year "breathing spell" after a tense year of troop-enforced integration at the school.

At Little Rock, Faubus met behind closed doors with advisers. He had nothing to say publicly, but talk of a special legislative session mounted.

An administration source said Faubus probably would have the state legislators in Little Rock by a week from Wednesday.

The appeals court decision came just 16 days before school is scheduled to reopen at Central High.

Little Rock Schol Supt. Virgil Blossom said the school board would make an all-out fight to prevent seven Negro students from re-entering Central.

But an attorney for three school board members, Richard C. Butler, said he did not know whether an appeal could be considered by the U.S. Supreme Court before the Sept. 2 opening of school. The high court is in recess until Oct. 6.

Writing for the majority, Judge Marion C. Mathes of St. Louis said the issue narrowed down to whether public resistance, including mob violence, was sufficient cause to nullify a federal court order directing the school board to carry out its plan for gradual integration of the Little Rock schools.

"We say the time has not yet come in these United States when an order of a federal court must be withheld away, watered down or shamefully withdrawn in the face of violent and unlawful acts of mob violence," Judge Mathes wrote.

Chief Judge Archibald K. Garner of Huron, S.D., was the only dissenter. He said the school board had acted in good faith and that Judge Lemley's decision suspending integration had been based on "unfounded and conditions, rather than theories."

Judge Mathes emphasized the importance of the decision on integration of Southern schools. Allowing Lemley's order to stand, he said, would mean an open invitation for other school districts to resort to violence.

Judge Lemley suspended the integration plan last June 21. It was at the request of the school board, Blossom, a key witness, testified that it was impossible to conduct normal classes because of incidents.

Faubus called out the National Guard at the start of school to keep the nine Negro students from attending classes. They had been selected to begin what the school board called gradual integration.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald Davies of Fargo, N.D., on a temporary assignment in Arkansas, ordered Faubus to withdraw the guard, who mob violence followed outside the school the next day. President Eisenhower sent federal troops to restore order and enforce the integration.

Several Houses in City Must Be Torn Down

Hope's Board of Directors last night condemned several houses, granted a station permit, okayed oil tests on city-owned property and named a new equalization board member.

A hearing on condemnation of eight houses was held last night and the official go-ahead was given on tearing down six and two were delayed. Property at 322 S. Walnut, owned by Mari Yocom, was granted a 30-day delay at Mr. Yocom's request, as was a delay granted on a house on Hayward St.

Those ordered torn down immediately are located at 416 Hayward, 425 Hayward, 607 Hayward, 424 Hayward, 315 East 4th, 708 Oak street.

Vincent Foster, representing American Production Co., asked the city to negotiate a lease with the company for making oil test on city-owned property in the Irving Ground. This was given an okay subject to approval of the city attorney and the CAA.

A permit originally granted to Gulf Oil Co. to erect a station at 8th and Main was transferred to Conoco Oil Co.

Unity and Garrett Memorial Churches were given permission to hold a revival on property back of the Courthouse and a loading zone was granted to B&B Grocery.

Ex-Official, Labor Leader Rap Proposals

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry and labor leader Odell Smith denounced two proposed amendments to the state constitution at a rally here last night.

Gentry charged that the State Rights Amendment, sponsored by segregationist Jim Johnson of Crossett, would cause "you to give up your rights as citizens."

No court in the state would have the power to unjoin the State Rights Commission which the amendment would set up, the former attorney general declared.

Smith, president of the Arkansas State Federated Labor Council, said the proposed Freedom to Hire Amendment would nullify the right for collective bargaining.

Under the amendment an employer could decide a worker was featherbedding if the worker had stopped to mop his brow or went for a drink of water, Smith said. "The Freedom to Hire Amendment is sponsored by railroads operating in Arkansas."

Faubus Rules Out Special Session, Looks to Board

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The integration spotlight centered on Little Rock and Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas today, just as it did almost a year ago when violence erupted around Central High School.

But this time the immediate reason was a court decision, not nine Negro pupils attempting to attend classes.

The 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis Monday overruled a district court and ordered resumption of integration at the troubled high school.

Several Southern spokesmen described the ruling as a tragic and unhappy one and an indication that the court felt integration was more important than education.

But Judge Martin C. Mathes of St. Louis wrote in his majority opinion that "the time has not yet come in these United States when an order of a federal court must be withheld away, watered down or shamefully withdrawn in the face of violent and unlawful acts of individual citizens."

The decision legally left the way open for Negroes to return to Central High Sept. 2, but steps were being taken to prevent this.

Faubus was expected to call a special session of the Arkansas Legislature next week. At the same time the Little Rock School Board said it would make every effort to keep in effect U. S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley's order for a 2½-year delay in integration.

The board could ask the appeals court for a stay pending a review by the Supreme Court. If the stay is granted, Lemley's order could continue in force after the start of the term. The board also could ask the Supreme Court for a stay, but the high tribunal's regular term does not open until October.

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.) said he believed it would be futile to carry the ruling to the Supreme Court.

People Look to Governor for Next Step

By ED MARTIN

LITTLE ROCK, AP — The people of Arkansas, who backed Gov. Orval Faubus' adamant stand on school integration by overwhelmingly voting him a third term, today awaited his reaction to a legal development which would thwart his will.

Faubus is expected to summon a special legislative session. It would handle the issues posed by yesterday's appellate court ruling against a two and one-half year integration delay.

The governor is on record as saying that no Arkansas school will be forcibly integrated if he can prevent it.

Recently Faubus said he would try new strategy in opposing integration but gave no hint of what it would be.

His attitude resulted in a federal suit last fall. Faubus was named Central High School with state guardsmen who blocked the attempted entry of nine Negroes.

After dramatic court developments and a riot at the school, President Eisenhower sent federal paratroopers to Little Rock and the Negroes attended classes under the protection of bayonets.

The smoldering dispute that followed culminated in the Little Rock School Board's plea for $20 for a federal court order granting a respite.

U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley ruled that the school board must pay the cost of the federal court order.

grim lesson of Little Rock," he said.

Said Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark): "It is rather tragic that the Circuit Court of Appeals has wholly disregarded the welfare of both races, and the will of the people in overruling the decision of the District Court."

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) declared that "if the Supreme Court upholds this decision, it is unmistakably adopting a course of rule or ruin as applied to public education in the South, and it will result in rule or ruin."

In Norfolk, Va., Monday night, the Norfolk School Board denied the application of 151 Negro pupils seeking admission to the city's white public schools.

The board pointed out that racial conflicts have occurred in areas where some of the Negro pupils sought schooling and expressed belief integration would renew such conflicts.

The board's announcement came shortly after two justices of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals had granted an injunction until Oct. 15 restraining the board from carrying out its assignment plan. The board's action was taken prior to receiving official notification of the injunction.

In North Carolina, the Winston-Salem school board assigned three Negro children to white schools and rejected applications from five others.

Central High Sept. 2?

Besides his announcement about some new kind of opposition plan, Faubus has talked about a possible measure to shut down any school integrated under a court order. However, he hasn't said he would suggest this to the Legislature.

Faubus won his third two-year term by polling about 70 per cent of the 385,000 votes cast in the July 29 Democratic primary and his actions in last year's integration crisis were a major issue of the campaign.

His two opponents, packing executive Chris Finkbeiner of Little Rock and Chancery Judge Lee Ward of Paragould, were avowed segregationists but condemned him bitterly for clashing with federal authority.

Faubus countered by terming them the puppets of integrationist forces which were trying desperately to defeat him.

Before the Central High controversy exploded, Faubus was considered fairly moderate on the integration issue.

During his 1956 campaign, when he also won re-election by a heavy majority, an ardent segregationist running against the governor accused him of favoring integrated schools.

But Faubus had made his position clear well before that campaign. On Jan. 28, 1956, the governor said in a written statement that 35 per cent of the people in Arkansas opposed school integration and that he wouldn't be a party to any attempt to force acceptance of it.

He put it even stronger during the 1958 gubernatorial campaign. With the historic events of the Little Rock crisis behind him, Faubus told the voters that he had taken his stand on integration and "from this position I shall not recede nor yield."

as the administration would like—toward Secretary of Agriculture Benson's goal of cutting down farm price support levels and loosening controls over production. It heads off a big cut in cotton and rice acreage that would have been required under existing law.

The labor and housing measures were disposed of earlier in the day through House action in killing the bills.

The labor measure, applying new controls on unions but not as tight as some members want, came up under conditions requiring a two-thirds majority for passage and did not even get a simple majority. The count was 180 for and 108 against.

There appeared no doubt it will be both a congressional campaign issue and the center of a hot fight in the next Congress.

There was some talk of trying for housing legislation in a sharply cut form but the adjournment pressure operated against that.

Jonesboro Council May Cut Out Pay

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Members of the Jonesboro city council last night considered serving without pay for the remainder of the year to help the city finances, facing a possible deficit.

But City Atty. Gerald Pearson said they could not legally work for free because of a law that says elected officials cannot raise or lower their salaries while in office.

Councilman L. B. Hamilton had proposed the members waive their $20-a-month pay which he said might keep one city employee on the payroll.

After Pearson said it was illegal he added slyly: "It would not be illegal to give the checks back to the city in the form of a donation."

That course, apparently, will be up to the individual council members.

Steel production of the United States amounts to 38.2 per cent of the world's total.

safety after dangling 1,800 feet in the air outside an airplane Monday.

Pvt. David L. Creager, 18, of the 101st Airborne Division jumped from a transport 1,800 feet up.

As he hung there, the crew—an Ohio reserve unit—tied ropes around his static lines and slowly pulled him toward the plane.

Ten minutes later they had him inside, getting artificial respiration from the only flight surgeon in the 16-plane flight. He was treated for minor injuries.

The accident occurred as the airman of the 350th Troop Carrier Squadron, from Clinton County, Ohio, Air Force Base, on weekend duty, were returning 250 paratroopers here from an exercise at the Ohio field.

Creager, of Dennison, Ohio, said today, "I just jumped too soon. I didn't wait long enough after the man in front of me jumped, and our lines got tangled."

The plane's commander, Capt. Robert E. Wright, New Carlisle, Ohio, said as the other man fell clear, his lines snapped back and twisted around Creager. That snarled his chute. Wright ran to the rear of the plane and helped haul him in.

Maj. Richard M. Griswold, squadron commander and the plane's pilot, said, "There is very seldom a successful rescue. If we had not had a full crew, a flight surgeon and fate on our side, we would have lost him."

This Worm's Turning
May Be a Revolution

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Four years ago I married a girl I absolutely adored. I would have done anything for her; I guess she took advantage of me because now that's just what I'm doing — everything and anything. We have no children, she gave up her job when we were married and what she does with all her time I don't know. When I come home at night I'm expected to do the marketing, the heavy household chores, and the dishes after dinner. She does cook! I can't go anywhere in the evening without her. I had to give up my lodge. The adoration I once felt is now turning to annoyance and I'm afraid it will soon become active dislike. Can the situation be changed at all?

bone is to flexible. Straighten and strengthen it! You're doing a fine job of earning your wife's contempt, since no woman in the world ever respected a man who could henpeck. This is the time for you to issue a bill of rights all your own. Get tough. Read the riot act — and read it good and loud. Announce in no uncertain terms that you've washed your last dish, made your last trip to the supermarket and washed your last sheet. Make it clear that henceforth you will earn the living and she will keep house. A man can be made by law, to support his wife; a wife should have the same responsibility to keep a good home.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My wife and I have been happily married for three years. We always read your column, even though we aren't in need of advice. Our formula for happiness is this: When we disagree over something we talk it over until we reach an agreement. Usually we end up laughing about the whole thing. If more people tried it there would be fewer arguments. — Barry S.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
When my daughter was three months pregnant with her second child, her husband deserted her. I take care of the children now, while she works. She has been to domestic relations court. Dear Mrs. R. L.: The National Desertion Bureau, 105 Nassau St., New York 7, N. Y., tries to locate family deserters. Their aim is to induce these men to return and make a proper home for their families or, if that fails, to force support.

Jury Picked
in Union Co.
Official Case

EL DORADO, Ark., AP—Merry Long, former Union County treasurer accused of embezzling more than $20,000 in public funds to spend on a young divorcee, went on trial in Union Circuit Court here today.

W. O. Waters, an employee of the State Comptroller's office who helped audit Long's books, was scheduled to be the state's first witness.

The woman on whom the state contends Long spent some of the money also is expected to take the stand. She is Miss Barbara Bennett, 26, of Shreveport, La.

Long was indicted by a Union County Grand Jury on a charge of misusing $22,538 in county funds after he had reported that he was robbed of about $20,000 on April 16.

The leftless World War II veteran, a father of six, told police someone knocked him unconscious and took the money during the noon hour when he was alone in his office.

The audit in which Waters participated was made a few days later and Long was indicted on June 9.

An all-male jury was selected yesterday to hear the case before Judge Gus W. Jones.

Conviction on the embezzlement charge could bring a prison term of five to 21 years.

Long also has been indicted on a misdemeanor of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance of office, which automatically removed him from his treasurer's post. Conviction of that charge could carry a penalty of as much as one year in jail or a $250 fine, or both.

Dodgers Play Best Against Loop Leaders

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Braves may be eight games ahead in the National League race, but they're still trying to catch up with the Los Angeles Dodgers, who are 14 games behind.

The Braves and the Dodgers play a two-night doubleheader that opens a five-game series at Los Angeles today.

The Braves, who have taken 11 of 14 from Cincinnati, stand 12 1/2 games ahead of the Dodgers in the race. They have won six of the last eight, however. They will send Pat Joyce (7-4) and rookie Carl Willey (0-3) against the Dodgers.

The fourth-place Dodgers, who have won five of their last six, will start Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres.

Four months ago, that would have sounded like a pip of a pitching combination for the Dodgers. But Drysdale, perhaps burdened with too much responsibility in the role of ace, has only a 7-11 record. And Podres, the southpaw who pitched the Dodgers to their world championship, has had his troubles after a fine start and stands only 10-10.

The second-place Giants met Cincinnati at San Francisco this afternoon. Bob Purkey, who had won only 10 in four previous major league seasons, tries for his 15th of the year for the Redlegs. Johnny Antonelli (13-10) is the Giants' choice.

The third-place Pittsburgh Pirates send Ronnie Kline (11-11) against Taylor Phillips (6-6) of the Cubs at Chicago.

The Phillies were at St. Louis for a night game with Jack Sanford (7-11) facing the Cards' Wilmer Mizell (8-9).

No NL games were scheduled Monday.

Baltimore defeated Kansas City 8-2 in the only American League game scheduled.

Patterson Wins in 12th But Not Satisfied

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES AP—Dissatisfied with his 12th-round knockout of game but outclassed Roy Harris, world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson vowed today to fight his way into sharper form.

His timing apparently suffering from his yearlong layoff, the 23-year-old champion had to climb from the floor to successfully defend his title Monday night against the courageous but sometimes awkward challenger from Cut and Shoot, Tex.

Patterson was down for a three count from a left and right in the second round but bounced up to take command from the next round on. He scored four knockdowns.

With Harris far behind on points and bleeding from a battered nose and cuts near both eyes, his veteran trainer, Bill Gore, asked that the fight be stopped after the 12th round.

"I had it stopped," Gore declared. "The fighter wanted to continue."

"I'm more dissatisfied with this fight than any one I've fought in the last few years," Patterson declared. "If I had been able to get started I might have been a different fighter. I know that if both of us had more fights we would have looked a lot better. I'll probably fight more often now."

Stopping the fight, which goes into the record as a 12th-round knockout, brought the first defeat to the picturesque Texan from the Big Thicket country near Houston. It was the third successive title defense for Patterson, who won the championship in 1955 at 21.

The champion from New York spotted his foe 9 1/2 pounds at 184 1/2 to 194 and landed the power punches. He knocked Harris down for an eight count in the seventh with a right to the side of the head. In the eighth Roy was down for counts of seven and three. He took a nine count in the 12th.

But fans who tabbed the Texan an easy mark and made him a 6-1 underdog were surprised to watch a bristling battle and a courageous showing from the challenger.

At times his unorthodox style in itself served to stall Patterson's attack.

Approximately 20,000 fans watched the open-air battle at Wrigley Field and another 200,000 by closed-circuit television in theaters across the nation.

The gross gate here was estimated at $228,000, the gross in theaters at a million dollars. Harris collects his $100,000 guaranteed, Patterson's take, it is estimated, will be more than $200,000.

Patterson's manager Cus D'Amato, still feuding with the Club, announced the champion is powerful International Boxing Club, announced the champion is committed to a title defense next June in Colorado Springs, Colo. But he didn't name an opponent and he left open the possibility that Floyd might fight in the meantime.

Patterson learned Monday nights fight the toughest of his three defenses. The others, against Hurricane Jackson and Pete Rademacher last year, also ended in knockouts.

Finds Way to Eliminate Spray Danger

According to Wade Benefield, Associate County Agent in Farm and Home Development, Richard Arnold, old of the DeAnn community has made a major farm management decision which will result in a higher net income from his cotton enterprise this year.

Arnold and other cotton farmers in Hempstead county having trouble controlling boll weevil buildups which indicates strongly the possibility of resistant weevils to the hydrocarbon insecticides such as Toxaphene, BHC and Endrin. Because of the human safety element, many farmers have resorted to the use of Malathion for controlling boll weevil with DDT added to control bollworms.

When cost factors are involved the matter of economics plays an important part in making changes in the farm business whether one practice is concerned, as in this case, or a change in the overall farm plan.

In figuring costs of various materials and rates of application Arnold found that is cost $2.82 per acre for Malathion and DDT as compared to $1.40 per acre for Methyl Parathion and DDT for a net saving of $1.42 per acre per application.

Since Methyl Parathion is extremely dangerous to Man Arnold had to make a decision to sacrifice the extra saving and lower his profits proportionately or to follow the recommendations for safe handling of the more dangerous Methyl Parathion and cut his insecticide expense by 50 percent.

Arnold's success in handling this extremely dangerous insecticide can be attributed to not being scared but respecting the potential dangers involved, using rubber gloves in handling the material, wearing a cloth mask to cut down on the concentration of the fumes, using open mouth containers to eliminate splashing, cutting off the spray when turning at end of rows to eliminate turning into spray mist and making liberal use of soap and water to clean up after handling.

Farmers that have spray machines that are interested in more information on the use of this insecticide can get advice concerning the danger and use from the County Extension office.

He said he made the decision five or six months ago.

Norway Plan Is Doomed, Says Nasser

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
CAIRO (AP)—The Nasser press today said the Norwegian plan for stabilizing the Middle East is doomed but that U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld will soon visit Cairo anyway.

The Norwegian resolution giving Hammarskjöld the job of easing Middle East tensions cannot obtain U.N. General Assembly approval because it does not demand immediate withdrawal of S. and British troops from the area, the Nasser controlled press said.

The newspaper Al-Ahram, an unofficial mouthpiece for U. A. R. President Nasser, said Hammarskjöld already had made plans to fly to Cairo to discuss the situation with Nasser. There was no official confirmation of the report.

(The Western-backed resolution was laid before the U.N. today.) Nasser ended three days of talks with Crown Prince Faisal, premier of Saudi Arabia, Faisal told newsmen full renewal of good relations between his country and the U.A.R. had developed from the talks.

Faisal's visit has aroused widespread speculation that Saudi Arabia eventually will federate with the U. A. R.

Nasserites claimed the U.A.R. also was winning support from Iraq and two Arab nations that have shown pro-Western leanings, Sudan and Libya. An education and cultural agreement will be negotiated with Iraq, the U. A. R. Ministry of Education said. Some observers regarded this as a preliminary step to eventual union or federation of Iraq and the U.A.R. A similar agreement preceded Syria's joining Egypt in the U.A.R. In Lebanon, the government announced it was sealing off the heart of Beirut in hopes of stopping bombings that have continued despite a truce in the rebellion. Another 15 unexploded bombs were found Sunday in the Beirut business district.

Shreveport Blast Brings Big Loss

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A fire and explosion destroyed a machine shop and diamond bit manufacturing plant near here today, causing an estimated $300,000 damage.

Cause of the fire and explosion was undetermined.

The Hycalog Oil Well Testing Service Bit plant was housed in five buildings.

Dan Grady, vice president of the plant, said fire trucks from Shreveport were unable to fight the blaze because of lack of fire hydrants. The plant and shop were about half a mile from the city limits.

Chapter XX

The officers were strangers to Ken. The first one out knelt by Ken's head and began to take his pulse. When he was satisfied that there was one, he tucked a blanket around the injured man, so that all that was visible was his head and one hand. The sight of the hand sickened Ken. It was a pathetic thing that seemed to be reaching for help that wasn't there.

The second officer had stopped to talk over the car radio. When his call was completed, he walked up to Ken.

"I called for an ambulance," he said, and turned to his partner. "How is he?"

"Not good. Looks like a head injury, and his leg is broken. It couldn't be bent like that and not be broken."

He nodded and spoke to Ken again. "The report says he is a prowler. You know who he is?"

Ken swallowed hard. His throat was like sandpaper. "Yes," he managed to whisper. "I know who he is."

The officer evidently decided to give Ken some time to collect himself, because he began to write on a note pad.

The officer was still writing when a dark coupe pulled to a stop, and Morrison got out. He had just reached headquarters when Ken's call had come in, and he had taken his own car rather than wait for a driver.

"You all right, Taylor?" he asked as he hurried up the walk.

"Yes, but I've made a terrible mistake," Ken's voice trembled uncontrollably. "I thought he was a prowler, but it was Mr. Cornwell. He stopped by the house with a present for my little girl. That's what he was doing, fastening it to the doorknob. He hit his head on the bricks, when he fell."

Morrison turned away.

"You fellows call an ambulance?" Morrison asked the uniformed officer.

"I checked, Taylor had the operator call for one. It should be here now."

"You don't think the fall could have killed him?" Ken asked anxiously.

Morrison didn't answer. He went over by the injured man.

The officer still knelt by him. He looked up as Morrison spoke. "He's alive, but that's about all. The pulse is thready, shock most likely. There's a severe wound at the base of the skull from falling on those bricks, and his leg is broken. We don't dare move him."

"No," Morrison agreed, "leave him as he is, and keep an eye on him. There's an ambulance on the way and I hope he stays unconscious until they get him loaded."

Morrison went back to Ken.

"Do you jump everyone that comes to your door?" he asked angrily.

Ken's face was white. "I was coming home from the depot after seeing my family off, and I had been thinking about how things had changed around here since the Adams boy's murder. I suppose I thought I had caught a murderer. Instead, I hurt a sick old man. I feel awful."

Morrison watched with little pity as the anguished man belabored himself.

"This whole group around here have been acting like a bunch of stupid sheep. The women act as if every man they see wants to rape them, and the men are so scared they'll be suspected, they

Stern Labor Curb Bill Seen for Next Year

By NORMAN WALKER

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP)—Several labor union chiefs said today business interests helped sink a labor control bill in Congress to push for sterner measures next year.

The House of Representatives Monday killed a Senate-passed labor bill, apparently ending the last chance for such legislation at this session.

AFL-CIO leaders, meeting here, had urged its passage, saying they believed the interests of the public and the decent element in the labor movement and management thus would be served.

In the wake of the House action, various AFL-CIO chiefs put major blame for defeat of the bill on the National Assn. of Manufacturers and U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the labor federation's Executive Council said the same management groups likely will seek stronger legislation next year — legislation that, from labor's viewpoint, would hamstring unions.

A somewhat similar charge was voiced by Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), a cosponsor of the Senate bill killed in the House. Ives said a lot of House members "were misled by false propaganda" from the NAM, the Chamber of Commerce, the American Retail Federation, the Teamsters Union and the United Mine Workers.

NAM President Milton C. Lightner has said his organization opposed the bill on the ground it was inadequate to deal with union abuses. Lightner also contended the bill would weaken safeguards in the Taft-Hartley Act.

There was no immediate comment by the others mentioned.

The bill among other things would have required detailed reporting to the government of union finances. It also would have required secret balloting for union officers and would have limited their terms.

In commenting on the House action, Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, said:

"This unholy alliance of the NAM, reactionary Republicans and Teamster President Jimmy Hoffa's gangster cohorts have done a great disservice to the American public and to the labor movement."

Similarly, President David McDonald of the Steelworkers Union and Joseph Beirne of the Communications Workers Union said business groups were mainly responsible in influencing defeat of the measure.

But Joseph Curran, Maritime Union president, said he was glad the bill died "because it was a hodgepodge."

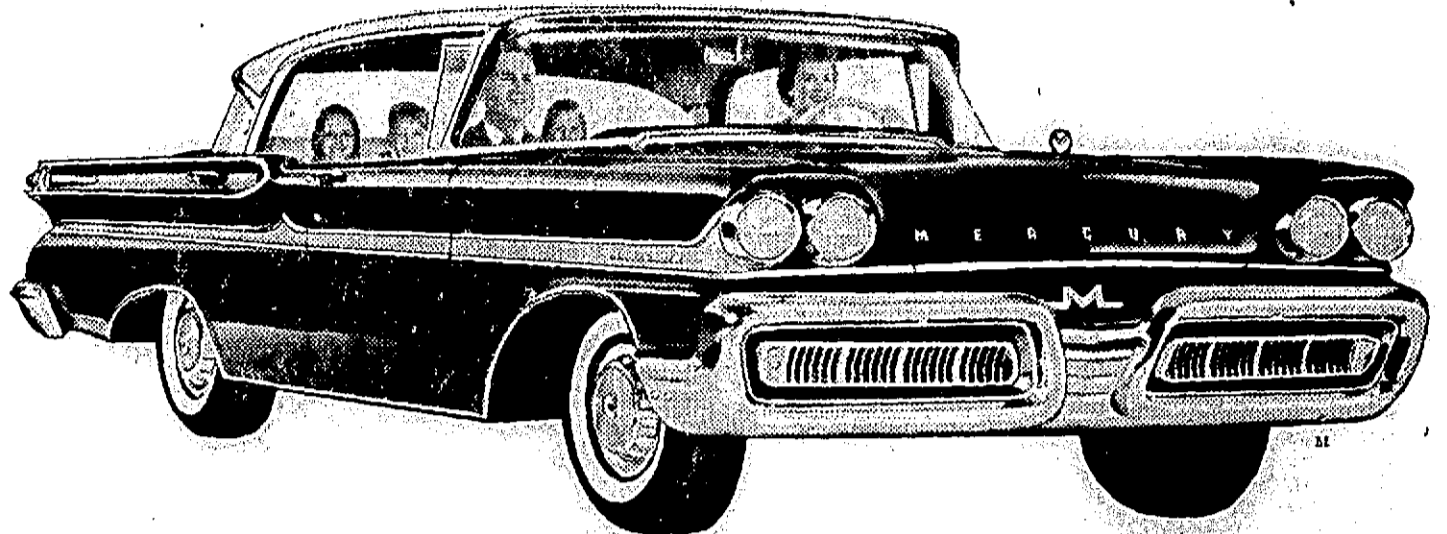

Water Shortage Reported in India

NEW DELHI (AP)—A critical water shortage gripped New Delhi for the third day today as army engineers sought to bring the warring Juthna River back within range of city pumping stations.

More than 3,500 laborers worked around the clock to dig connecting channels between the pumping stations and the river, which shifted course in the wake of monsoon floods. The river's level also dropped.

Water mains throughout the city were turned on for only brief periods in the morning and afternoon.

$800 million in assets...and only 11 years old!

From an idea to an $800 million corporation in eleven years... that's the meteoric pace of Texas Eastern's growth.

Texas Eastern was incorporated in January, 1947, to purchase the war-built Big Inch and Little Big Inch pipelines and to convert them to the transportation of natural gas. At the close of its first year, Texas Eastern's pipelines totaled 3,100 miles; its assets more than $156,000,000.

From this start, the company's assets have grown substantially... a growth that has taken place in two ways at once; by expansion of its pipeline system, and by diversification of its operations.

Expansions have more than doubled pipeline mileage in 10 years to some 7,700 miles. The company's pipelines now reach from Mexico to New York and Boston and from the Gulf Coast to Chicago.

To help meet insistent demands of winter, Texas Eastern has participated in development of one of the world's largest underground storage pools for natural gas. Gas placed in this pool during the summer is withdrawn as needed when winter comes.

One of the company's first diversification moves was acquisition of Triangle Pipeline Company, a petroleum products system serving East Texas, Northern Louisiana, and Southern Arkansas. In 1958 the company completed the reconversion of a major segment of its Little Big Inch line to petroleum products service. This line coupled with the former Triangle system forms the Little Big Inch Division—a common carrier products pipeline linking the Gulf Coast and Midwest.

A production division was formed to explore for and produce oil and natural gas and to acquire producing properties. In 1957 the extensive holdings of La Gloria Oil and Gas Company were added to the production division's interests.

In addition, La Gloria, a wholly-owned subsidiary, is owner of one of the world's largest natural gas processing plants and one of the industry's most modern refineries.

Texas Eastern's total assets—as of August 1958—exceed $800,000,000. Thus, year-by-year, Texas Eastern grows in size and scope of service—the better to serve a nation grown dependent upon natural gas and refined oil products.
